Among older adults, there is a decrease in nationally reported prescription opioid-related poisonings, but an increase in the proportion experiencing life-threatening outcomes and co-use with stimulants.